U.S. move only after Russian withdrawal
 'Hour appropriate for change'
 Meir sounds call to Sadat: Meet as equals

By SAM LIPSKI
 Jerusalem Post Correspondent
 WASHINGTON.—The Nixon Administration will allow the withdrawal of Soviet military personnel from Egypt to run its course before any decision is made to resume active diplomatic efforts on an Arab-Israeli settlement.

At the same time, discreet moves are already underway in Washington to exploit the setback to Russian standing in the Middle East. They include accelerated soundings by American officials, as well as private go-betweens in the oil and academic world, with the object of restoring U.S. influence lost since the 1967 war.

A full review of the latest developments is expected in a meeting later this week, possibly today, between Ambassador Yitzhak Rabin and Assistant Secretary of State Joseph Sisco. Preliminary telephone conversations have already been held.

Authoritative diplomatic sources here have confirmed signs that indicate the Soviet withdrawal is on a larger scale than was at first assumed last week when Defence Secretary Laird spoke of departures by only 5,000 military advisers.

Intelligence sources here now understand that the withdrawal extends to units manning Sam missile complexes around key Egyptian centres such as Alexandria, Aswan, and Cairo.

TU-16 aircraft equipped with the air-to-surface Kelt missile are also reported to be withdrawing although some TU-16s remain on station for surveillance of the U.S. Sixth Fleet.

According to sources quoted in the "Washington Post," the Soviet presence would drop to as low as 2,000 men.

While confirming this estimate, the intelligence sources say the number of personnel is less important than who they are and that much more significant is the question of Soviet naval and air base facilities. There is still no sign that the Russians will be seriously weakened in their strategic posture for the immediate future.

On the diplomatic level the American position remains one of leaning over backwards to avoid official analysis. Theoretically the U.S. remains "available to offer its good offices if the parties involved express such an interest." Beyond that, Washington remains tentative, one eye on a presidential election, the other on the unravelling of the Soviet presence.

The State Department spokesman, asked about Mrs. Meir's call for direct peace talks with President Sadat, replied yesterday, "I am not in a position to respond." He indicated there was discussion and evaluation of recent events in the Middle East in the high echelons of the U.S. Government but said no public comment could be expected in the future.

WALDHEIM: ISRAEL MUST QUIT AREAS
 BONN (DPA). — U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim said yesterday that the Israel army must give up its control of the administered areas. He was speaking on a German television interview.

Observers in Bonn noted that Mr. Waldheim spoke of "the" areas, not merely areas (as stated in the November 1967 Security Council Resolution 242). They interpreted this as meaning that the Secretary-General meant a retreat from all of the areas.

At the same time, Mr. Waldheim denied that he supports the Arab states. "When the U.N. makes decisions favouring the Arabs," he said, "I am bound to carry such decisions out."

SIGNALS TO CAIRO

Prime Minister Golda Meir's statement in the Knesset yesterday was a sober and cautious response to the recent vents in Cairo flavoured throughout with enough conciliatory sentiment to elicit interest in Cairo if the Egyptian Government is inclined to listen.

The speech was devoid of dramatics, although at one stage the Premier did appeal directly to President Sadat. Mrs. Meir stressed that it was still too early to know the full implications of Sadat's decision to ask for the withdrawal of the Soviet advisers and some operational units, and pointed out that Russia's military presence will probably remain of sufficient scope to leave unaffected the Soviet Union's strategic interests.

Yet the Premier made no effort to belittle the significance of what has already occurred. On the contrary she emphasized that a major turn appears to have taken place.

In saying this, Mrs. Meir also refrained from injecting anything designed to exploit the differences that have emerged between Egypt and Moscow, in order to score propaganda points. Rather she underlined the profound nature of the relations between these two countries, and while she expressed Israel's conviction that Soviet policy in the region did nothing to promote peace, Mrs. Meir also specifically took note of Sadat's complaint that the Kremlin refused to give him all the arms he wants.

In addressing herself directly to President Sadat, Mrs. Meir pointedly ignored the unrepentant sentiments expressed in his speech in Cairo on Monday. Instead she dwelt on the continuing prospects for some kind of agreement, prospects which await Cairo's willingness to seize them.

Mrs. Meir mentioned that Israel neither considers the cease-fire lines as final nor intends to freeze the existing situation. She addressed herself to Egypt's conviction that Israel would consider a partial pull-back from the Suez Canal as a substitute for a more general agreement, explicitly saying that such a settlement would be regarded as a temporary solution.

The Prime Minister did not make any favourable pronouncement about the Jarring mission, but suggested that the path of direct negotiation or the proposed mechanism for achieving an interim settlement at Suez are the genuine avenues of promise.

If therefore, Sadat, after the evacuation of the Soviets, is seriously interested in pursuing diplomatic rather than military options, and diplomatic options which do not merely mean an effort to achieve an imposed solution, Mrs. Meir yesterday supplied sufficient material to sustain the momentum.

STRIKE THREAT RECEDES
 FIVE DOCKERS FREED IN U.K.

LONDON (Reuters). — Britain's industrial relations court last night ordered the freeing of five militant dock workers whose imprisonment had pushed the nation towards the brink of industrial anarchy.

The decision came only a few hours after the Trades Union Congress (T.U.C.) — representing some 10 million workers — had ordered a 24-hour general strike for next Monday because of the judgments. In advance of the T.U.C. order, thousands of workers had already staged walk-outs which shut down ports, newspapers, food markets and disrupted bus and air services.

The freeing of the five made it unlikely that the general strike will now go ahead. The T.U.C. had said the stoppage would proceed only if the dockers remained in jail.

The decision was announced by Sir John Donaldson, the same judge who ordered the five dockers off to jail for contempt of court last Friday. The five had refused to obey the industrial court — set up under new legislation only this year — to cease their harassment of a company which they thought was threatening their jobs.

The petition to free the dockers was made through the official solicitor — a court functionary whose task is to keep an eye on people jailed for contempt and ensure that the punishment is not too severe.

Enthusiastic cheers went up outside the court as Sir John's decision was announced. He said his decision was influenced by a ruling made earlier in the day by the House of Lords — Britain's highest court of appeal — in another case involving the industrial court.

This concerned a £55,000 fine imposed earlier this year on the Transport and General Workers Union because its shop stewards had insisted on harassing a company they believed to be jeopardizing their jobs. The court held the union responsible for the actions of its stewards — even though these actions were not carried out on union orders.

This ruling was thrown out by the Court of Appeal and the £55,000 was (Continued on Page 5, Col. 3)

MEIR SPEAKS TO NIXON IN NEW TV SATELLITE HOOK-UP

Mrs. Meir in phone conversation yesterday with President Nixon over Israel's new earth satellite communications station. A still picture of Mr. Nixon was flashed on TV screen as he spoke. Transport Minister Peres looks on.

Jerusalem Post Reporter
 A direct phone conversation between Prime Minister Golda Meir and U.S. President Nixon yesterday afternoon highlighted the opening ceremony of Israel's new earth-satellite communications station at Erezek Ha'ela, southwest of Jerusalem.

Mr. Nixon, who was speaking from the Oval Room in the White House, said: "You can be sure we will continue to work together for what you're interested in and what we're interested in, and that is a just peace in the Mideast which will protect the integrity of Israel, for which your people have suffered so much." The President expressed regret that he had not been able to visit Israel while in office. He said that with the new means of telecommunication in use Americans would see more of Israel, with dividends in tourism for both countries.

Mrs. Meir told Mr. Nixon that she remembered the Oval Room "with gratitude for the time you gave me there and listened to my long stories of trouble." To Mr. Nixon's remark about tourism, she said humorously: "This is a commercial that will work both ways."

Nearly 2,000 invited guests alternately saw Mr. Nixon (in a still picture) and Mrs. Meir (live) on the screens of television sets which were placed in the aisles and between the long rows of chairs in the large open area dominated by the station's huge, white, dish-shaped antenna. As Mrs. Meir declared the station open a number of white doves were released.

In a demonstration of the capabilities of satellite transmission the audience saw and heard Israel Broadcasting reporters in Paris, Munich, and Houston. From Washington violinist Isaac Stern played a Haydn adagio which came across

U.N. confirms Sams fired at Israeli jets in Sinai

UNITED NATIONS (AP). — U.N. cease-fire observers along the Suez Canal, in a report issued here yesterday, confirmed an Israeli complaint that four Egyptian ground-to-air missiles were fired across the Canal at Israeli jet planes on Monday.

The report, based on observations from six posts, said the planes were flying east of the Canal. It did not say any of the planes had been shot down.

Its effect was to contradict the Cairo claim that four Israeli Phantom had tried to penetrate Egyptian air space west of the Canal on Monday and one had been downed.

U.N. observers inside Lebanon said Israeli troops on Monday moved 100 metres into that country near Nagura (Roeh Hanfara), and 300 metres inside Lebanon near Yarusu.

Sapir rejects idea of wartime controls

TEL AVIV. — Finance Minister Pinchas Sapir last night rejected the idea of placing wartime-like controls on Israel's economy which would head Yitzhak Ben-Aharon, who was advocating. Mr. Sapir, who was speaking to the Independent Liberal Party's Free Enterprise Club at the Basel Hotel here, also dismissed the building of rental housing as "unrealistic" and called for breaking the hold of a "small group of bankers" on the Tel Aviv Stock Exchange.

Cairo: No change; Tass: Hypocrisy

CAIRO (Reuters). — Official sources, commenting here last night on Prime Minister Golda Meir's offer to meet President Sadat, said that Egypt's position on direct talks remained unchanged. President Sadat has said in recent speeches that Egypt's agreement to direct talks with Israel would be to admit "surrender."

Yesterday he said the closing session of the Arab Socialist Union General Congress that the path ahead was a long one and that nature and history were on Egypt's side. But this was not taken as an immediate response to Mrs. Meir's statement which was made only shortly before President Sadat spoke. (See story — page 3).

Meanwhile, the Libyan news agency said yesterday President Sadat is expected to visit Libya on Saturday for a few days.

In Moscow, Tass said in a dispatch from London entitled "Hypocrisy and covert threats," that Mrs. Meir's speech was "a hypocritical statement" and "contained threats against neighbouring Arab countries in case they refused direct talks." The dispatch was apparently a product of reports monitored in London.

M.K.s stress foreign policy

By BESH GOODMAN
 Jerusalem Post Knesset Reporter

In the four-hour debate which followed Mrs. Meir's statement, most speakers followed the Premier's lead and concentrated their statements on foreign policy issues — specifically in the light of the withdrawal of the Soviet advisers from Egypt.

Few speakers spoke on internal problems, and only one Member, Mr. Tewfik Toubi of the New Communists, mentioned the several dozen Birim settlers who were striking outside the Knesset for the second consecutive day yesterday.

The debate was generally well attended, but there was remarkable restraint from the floor and hardly any heckling was heard — a rare phenomenon during a major political debate.

Prof. Yitzhak Klinghoffer (Gahal) was convinced the Soviet pull-back does not mean the end of Russian influence in the Middle East. On the contrary, events over the past few months point to Russian attempts to increase its influence among the Arabs. One must also bear in mind that the Soviet-Egyptian Friendship Pact signed last year still stands and still commits the two countries against Israel. Egypt's attitude to Israel had also not changed and he declared that all talk of peace by Egyptian Ministers was pure propaganda.

Mr. Moshe Carmel, acting Chairman of the Foreign Affairs and Defence Committee, said that the expulsion of the Soviets from Egypt could be used as a lever for the institution of an era of changed relations between Israel and the Arabs. Those who hope and strive for peace, however, were bitterly disappointed by President Sadat's bellicose speech last week in which the usual war-like clichés such as "What has been taken by force must be returned by force," recurred consistently. "Egypt did not rid itself of the British in order to be

'McGovern, Nixon and Agnew too' Eagleton won't take psych exam alone

LON ANGELES (AP). — Democratic vice-presidential nominee Thomas F. Eagleton said yesterday that he did not feel any need for a psychiatric examination now and would not submit to one unless Sen. George McGovern, President Nixon and Vice-President Spiro Agnew do the same.

While Sen. McGovern remained secluded at his South Dakota cabin retreat, telegrams began arriving from supporters and most urged him to drop Sen. Eagleton as his running mate in the wake of his disclosure. Some telegrams urged Sen. Eagleton's retention, but they were outnumbered 2 to 1 by antagonistic ones.

Saigon flag hoisted over Quang Tri

SAIGON (AP). — South Vietnamese paratroopers hoisted a government flag over the Quang Tri Citadel yesterday but field reports said there were still pockets of North Vietnamese resistance in and around the battle-ravaged fortress.

The U.S. adviser estimated it might take another 48 hours to mop them up and completely secure the Citadel, which symbolizes the last bastion of North Vietnamese occupation in the Quang Tri province capital.

13 Yugoslav soldiers killed by terrorists

SARAJEVO (Reuters). — Thirteen of Yugoslavia's security forces have been killed in fighting with right-wing Ustaasi terrorists, officials announced here yesterday. Those killed included an army captain, said the announcement by the National Defence Headquarters and the Interior Ministry of the Yugoslav republic of Bosnia-Herzegovina.

The terrorists, in green uniforms and black hats, originally crossed from Austria and hijacked a truck to take them through part of Yugoslavia, according to the Belgrade newspaper "Novosti." During their journey, chased by security forces, the terrorists ambushed a group of hunters in a forest and left them tied up after taking food. They were said to be armed with machineguns and daggers.

Seventh Spassky, Fischer game drawn

REYKJAVIK. — The seventh game in the world chess championship between title-holder Boris Spassky and U.S. challenger Bobby Fischer ended in a draw by perpetual check last night after 48 moves.

The match score still favours Fischer at 4-3. A draw gives each player a half point. Spassky, playing first with the white pieces and needing a win to pull even with Fischer, opened with a pawn to king's rook four. Experts said this move ensured the world champion of the draw. Seven moves later, Spassky had settled into perpetual check, making a drawn game inevitable.

Sadat says conflict will be long one Cairo Congress winds up: Demands anti-U.S. action

CAIRO. — The National Congress of the Arab Socialist Union wound up yesterday by calling on Arab nations to define their attitude towards the U.S. in the light of "the fact that American support for Israel is the major factor blocking a Middle East peace settlement."

This was one of the resolutions adopted by the 1,500 delegates of Egypt's lone political party shortly after President Sadat, in a five-minute speech, declared that Israel should understand the Arab-Israeli conflict would be a long one and that nature and history stood on the side of the Arabs.

Sadat stressed Egypt's friendship with the Soviet Union, but in an apparent reference to weapons needs, said, "What we want is essential not only to us but to people all over the globe."

The Congress, after a three-day conference, announced full support for President Sadat's ouster of Soviet military advisers.

Called for increased self-reliance in the absence of the Soviets.

Urged national unity as a quality as important as life itself and warned against any attempt to disrupt it.

Sayed Maref, first secretary of the Central Committee of the A.S.U., noted the resolution in more detail as follows:

1. The Congress fully endorses the revolutionary and courageous decisions assumed by the political leadership in expression of Egyptian sovereignty and its independence in all fields of national action and over every inch of Egyptian territory... and denounces every attempt to exploit these decisions in a way that will harm our national interests.
2. The Congress declares that the basic American attitude, which is one of complete bias in favour of Israel, constitutes the major obstacle to a just solution of the Middle East crisis and emphasizes the importance of making this fact clear to the Arab masses and the need to define attitudes toward the United States of America on the basis of this understanding.
3. The Congress considers that the changing circumstances surrounding preparations for the battle impose on the national action the duty of being sincere in the efforts of our people... to raise the level of our own power and to rely on this power.
4. The Congress considers that if national unity has been essential in the past stages of our struggle, it is now our existence and life and any tampering with it or surrendering it would be considered an adventure reflecting on the destiny of the whole national action.
5. The attitude of the working people is an appropriate formula to secure national unity and to support it.

Sadat spoke shortly after Prime Minister Golda Meir addressed the Knesset in Jerusalem. The President said in his speech that Israel's friends should also get the message of the Congress that "we will never hesitate before any fear and never go back through terror."

President Sadat declared: "We do not consider that what we want is necessary only for us, but we believe that it is also necessary for the freedom of all peoples." He said Egyptians would shoulder their responsibilities "even if we are alone."

President Sadat is also due to speak again today before the students of Alexandria University.

Meanwhile, a high Egyptian official called on Arab states yesterday to mobilize their resources for the Arab battle with Israel, the Iraqi news agency said.

In a Cairo interview, Mohammed Hassan el-Zayyat, Minister of State for Information, said: "It is clear that the Arab nation has capabilities which have not yet been gathered to serve the cause." Zayyat reiterated Egypt's determination to regain occupied Arab land and rejected the "Israeli military solution" to the Middle East crisis.

Earlier, the newspaper "Al Gomhourya" called for action to expose American schemes against the Arabs. "We must awaken to the knowledge that the United States is our principal enemy. But this knowledge will not be enough unless it is followed by speedy, organized and decisive action to strike at American centres of thought and expose all elements still spreading the idea that the Americans are the only ones who can solve our problem."

"Al Gomhourya" said it was a priority duty to "expose American schemes against the Arab nation."

"Al Akhbar," commenting on Israeli charges, following President Sadat's speech on Monday, that Egypt was hardening its line on the Middle East crisis, said:

"If Israel imagined at any time that there would be a lenient Egyptian stance — meaning a stance which would allow concessions on territory — it would be ignoring the truth about the Egyptian people and Egyptian nationalism."

Shapiro gets year's 'corrective labour'

MOSCOW (UPI). — A Moscow court found Jewish activist Gabriel Shapiro guilty of evading military reserve training yesterday and sentenced the red-haired husband of an American Jewish girl to one year of "corrective labour."

The penalty allows Mr. Shapiro, 27, his freedom while working at a state-assigned job — perhaps in a factory — and surrendering 20 per cent of his wages to the state.

Mr. Shapiro, an unemployed chemist who married Judy Beth Silver of Cincinnati, Ohio, in a private Jewish ceremony in Moscow on June 8, credited "the force of the U.S. Government and my wife" with saving him from the maximum penalty of a year in jail.

"The verdict was not so unexpected," a calm but happy Shapiro told Western newsmen in a tree-shaded park adjoining the courthouse. Some 50 Jewish friends keeping vigil there despite police harassment thrust flowers at him, hugged him and kissed him.

Mrs. Shapiro, 26, has been pressing the White House to intervene on her husband's behalf. She left the Soviet Union when her tourist visa expired five days after their Jewish wedding. She tried to return without a visa on Monday but was intercepted at passport control and put aboard the next outbound plane at Moscow's Sheremetyevo airport.

Released on his own recognizance, Mr. Shapiro has one week to appeal. He said he was "hopeful" the sentence might be downgraded to the minimum penalty, a fine of 100 rubles ($121) or 100 days of "corrective labour."

Mr. Shapiro was tried by a three-judge panel in Kalinin District Court. Western newsmen and all but two of Mr. Shapiro's friends were barred from the courtroom on the grounds that all seats were taken. His parents were admitted.

Mr. Shapiro, a lieutenant-engineer in the army reserve, was charged with refusing an order by military officials to report for 57 days of reserve training several weeks before President Nixon's May visit. He told newsmen in June he regarded the order as an attempt to prevent him and other Zionist Jews seeking or three paraded in their efforts at emigration to Israel from demonstrating for emigration rights during the Nixon visit.

Mr. Shapiro went into hiding, emerging only to marry Miss Silver in his parents' Moscow apartment. He was arrested on June 12, minutes after seeing his wife off at the airport.

Mr. Shapiro told newsmen in the park that he told the court he considered the 2 1/2-hour trial illegal because he has renounced his Soviet citizenship, accepted Israeli citizenship and was thus "being kept here by force. I consider this a violation of my human rights."

U.K. Herut demonstrates against Soviet trials

LONDON (INA). — Some 50 members of Herut yesterday afternoon organized a demonstration at Intourist, the Soviet travel agency here, carrying placards pointing up Jewish trials in the Soviet Union.

Police were called and the demonstrators were forced to leave the building. However, two men and other Zionist Jews seeking or three paraded in their efforts at emigration to Israel from demon-

Jane Fonda 'cried for America' in Hanoi

PARIS (UPI). — American film actress Jane Fonda said on Tuesday she has spent two weeks touring a North Vietnam bombed by U.S. warplanes and cried — not for the Vietnamese, but for the Americans.

"I shed many tears in North Vietnam, but not for the Vietnamese. They are happy, dancing and working. I cried for the Americans. It's an American tragedy," she said with an emotion-filled voice.

Addressing a packed news conference, the actress said, "It will take many years to wipe off the blight put on our flag by the likes of Mr. Nixon."

She said her trip, as a guest of the Hanoi Committee on U.S. War Crimes, had convinced her that U.S. planes were raiding North Vietnam to deliberately destroy its flood-dike system. "I believe in my heart, profoundly, that the dikes are being bombed on purpose," she said. (The U.S. has repeatedly denied that bombing is directed at non-military targets.)

Miss Fonda showed newsmen film clips taken during her tour of the Hanoi suburbs. She also showed a film showing seven U.S. war prisoners who, she said, told her they believed they will remain captive so long as President Nixon remained in office.

Miss Fonda said the colour slides she had shown included wrecked civilian targets such as hospitals.

The P.O.W.s dressed in red and purple striped jail clothes, appeared on the film sitting opposite Miss Fonda who was questioning them about the war.

"They all told me they were afraid they would never be released as long as Richard Nixon is president. They asked me to urge everyone in the U.S. to oust Nixon," she said.

Miss Fonda appeared before the press wearing jeans, a black leather top and sandals. Her hair was in a shag cut, and she sometimes tapped the floor with her feet to make a point.

Miss Fonda denied reports she had appealed to U.S. servicemen in South Vietnam to disobey. The report had drawn accusations she was guilty of treason.

"I spoke every day on the radio in the belief that if the American pilots knew what they were doing they would not continue bombing," she said.

The prisoners appeared in the film in good health, and were smiling. "They spoke normally," Miss Fonda said. "They were not brainwashed. All of them wanted me to take messages to their sweethearts and families."

London for M.E. dialogue

LONDON (Reuters). — The Foreign Office yesterday said it did not believe a Middle East settlement could be achieved without some kind of dialogue taking place between the Arab-Israeli parties at some stage.

A spokesman said this at his daily press conference when asked to comment on Prime Minister Golda Meir's speech yesterday.

The spokesman added: "Our position on the possibility of a meeting such as that proposed by Mrs. Meir remains that, as we have previously made clear, we do not believe that a settlement can be achieved without some kind of dialogue taking place between the parties at some stage." He declined further comment.

France yesterday renewed its support for the mission of Dr. Gunnar Jarring following the speeches by President Sadat and Premier Golda Meir. Government spokesman Jean Philippe Lecat told reporters after a Cabinet meeting at which Foreign Minister Maurice Schumann reported on the Middle East situation:

"All misunderstandings and distrust which have so far prevented a political settlement must be overcome. Should parallel or supplementary efforts prove useful, the French government will not fail to contribute, in accordance with the principles which have always guided its action."

MAUGHAM'S MR. KNOW-ALL

To the Editor of The Jerusalem Post Sir, - I wish to refer to Alex Brynne's feature of July 14, in his private life. Mr. Somerset Maugham may have been as bad an anti-Semite as Galsworthy, Geothor or Chopin - but his Mr. Know-All was probably not intended to be a Jew. Neither the story itself, nor the critics support this theory.

High Court and lawyers fees

The High Court of Justice dismissed a petition for an order nisi calling upon the Netivei Neft Inquiry Commission and others to show cause why they should not rescind their decision with regard to the lawyers' fees.

The petitioner, himself a lawyer, alleged in his petition that the fees granted by the Commission to the lawyers who had appeared before it were, although based on a recommendation by the Director-General of the Ministry of Justice, grossly exorbitant and unreasonable and that even what remained of the fees after some of the lawyers had waived theirs completely and others had waived part, still remained unrealistic.

Mr. Segal appeared for the petitioner. The High Court held that the preliminary question of whether the petitioner had standing had first to be decided. In deciding this question in the negative they noted that there are no hard and fast statutory criteria for establishing when the High Court will intervene; the decision is left to the discretion of the High Court itself as to whether to intervene in the interests of justice.

LAW REPORT Edited by Doris Lankin THURSDAY, JULY 27, 1972 In the Supreme Court sitting as High Court of Justice Before the Deputy President (Justice Sussman) Justices Kister and Etzioni. Amnon Zichroni, Petitioner, v. Netivei Neft Inquiry Commission & Others, Respondents (E.C. 234/72). Not every complaint can be brought to High Court

High Court will not sustain a petition from each and every citizen who wishes to bring a complaint before it, but will demand that the citizen prove that some personal, material interest of his has been prejudiced by the authorities.

The petitioner in the present case, they held, had no such personal, material interest as he had not been a party to the proceedings and had contributed nothing directly from his own pocket towards the cost of the Commission's decision.

In conclusion, the High Court noted that it was incumbent upon the administration to reply to the petitions of citizens whose rights had been directly prejudiced; but the administration should not be burdened with the additional duty of replying to the complaints of any citizen who feels an urge to take up the
